A temporary pavilion for 'Sportfeld'

The 'Sportfeld' pavilion stands for the vision and development of recreational and competitive sports in Gründenmoos near St. Gallen. As GC, we planned, produced and assembled the light-green pavilion which is a beacon for this ambitious project.

As a centre of excellence, the temporary modular construction features rooms for physiology, biomechanics and psychology as well as sports activities and lectures over an area of just under 91 m². The light-green pavilion, built according to the Minergie energy standard, also has a 113 m² terrace.

The building made of spruce wood is clad with a larch facade varnished in green. The modular construction was designed so it can be dismantled and moved very quickly. This means it could be used at a new location within a week. The high-quality materials that have been used guarantee a long service life for the pavilion.
